

I personally do not like this idea. The code test and theory tests were designed as individual exams and should remain that way.